K. OF P. ANNUAL THANKSGIVING—A RECORD BREAKER.

Fort Worth, Texas, March 27.—St. James Baptist church was the center of attraction last Sunday, March 23rd, when the several Courts of Calanthe, the Brave Knights augmented by the very splendid Uniform Rank and led by the famous Panther City K. of P. Band entered the spacious auditorium at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

The occasional lodge was immediately opened after entering the church and without superfluous remarks, the Master of Ceremonies plunged right into his most excellent program. The essays and historical remarks were interspersed with charming anthems, instrumental solo, that "Home, Sweet Home" was a caper of the musical ear and the sacred numbers rendered by the K. of P. band.

At the conclusion of the literary program the Master of Ceremonies introduced Dr. J. H. Winn, March 23rd, when the several Courts of Calanthe, the Brave Knights augmented by the very splendid Uniform Rank and led by the famous Panther City K. of P. Band entered the spacious auditorium at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Taking his place at the pulpit, Dr. Winn read from the scripture, "What will it profit you to gain the whole world and lose the soul?" He at once, converted the world into a university whose students are made up of all men, and women, and wrote upon the blackboard of its walls a problem of Profit and Loss to be solved by the inmates of the university.

In the close of his argument, Dr. Winn, portrayed Jesus and the thief on the cross, describing the criminal message Jesus sent from the cross to His father to intercept, turn back the single seated chariot which had just been dispatched from heaven to convey His spirit home and send a double seated one instead for a candidate, a dying thief had "leaped," had rushed His word and instead of coming alone, I will bring him with me.

At the conclusion of the program a collection which had been arranged by the Central Committee was taken for the Westside Centenary club, which has for its object the carving for the graves of the forgotten dead. About $39.00 was raised and given to the W. S. Cemetery club. Every body went away feeling that it was good that I was there.

Mrs. Ruby Johnson, 1519 Wynn street, entertained with a two-course dinner at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, the 12th inst., in honor of her mother and father's fifty-second wedding anniversary. After dinner, ice cream and cake were served in the living room. Decorations: sweet peas and ferns. There were four generations present.

MR. and MRS. Wm. ELLIOT.

He and four comrades, Sergeant Tucker of Athens, Texas; Private Frank Coleman of Houston; Sergeant Henry Langrum of Palestine, Texas, and Private Bruce Brigham of Greenville, Texas, were royally entertained Thursday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. D. W. Lee, 1200 Josephine, refreshments were served. Music and games were the pleasures of the evening.

Mrs. Pinkie Lopets of Cleburne, spent several days in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hall, W. Bluff street, last week.

Mrs. Bowden has returned from Terrell, where she was called several weeks ago to attend her sick mother. Mr. and Mrs. C. Miller of Dallas were pleasant visitors in the city last Sunday and were present at the great annual Thanksgiving services of the K. of P.

Mrs. Lela Ray of Palestine was the guest of Mrs. Willie Groves, 950 Hellen avenue, last week.

THREE DALLAS BOYS RISE FROM THE RANKS—MAKE RECORDS—TEACHER, SHORT-HAND AND MUSICAL ROOM AT THE TOP PRINCIPAL T. D. MARSHALL, H. W. SCOTT AND J. E. C. JONES

By N. W. Harlee.

A few years ago, Henry W. Scott, T. D. Marshall and J. B. C. Jones were school boys at school number two, now known as Booker Washington school, corner Burford and Flora streets. Since that day, T. D. Marshall has developed into a principal and teacher of standing, now placed at the head of the Dallas Senior Normal Institute, and was for two or three years an instructor in the high school department, and several sessions as an instructor in summer normal classes. Mr. Marshall rose from the ranks, now placed at the head of the Dallas Senior Normal Institute, and was for two or three years an instructor in the high school department, and several sessions as an instructor in summer normal classes. Mr. Marshall rose from the ranks, now placed at the head of the Dallas Senior Normal Institute, and was for two or three years an instructor in the high school department, and several sessions as an instructor in summer normal classes.

Mr. J. B. C. Jones did not take to the teachers' rank, but sought a different field, the field of music and song, and the art of painting and decorating. When a boy at number two, he was charmed with the melody of song, and he was always when Miss Gosling would give a new song, for that was the music directress, and he would watch every motion of the baton, and ask questions about the flags on the notes, and open wide his mouth after the manner of young birds in a nest when their mother approaches with their morning meal. Little did any of us dream that he would become a great bass baritone singer that he is, a pride of our city. Would it not be very fitting for us to do for our hats to the baby in the crib, and ask the question, "What are his little hands, what are his feet, what are his big feet, what human facts, what related facts?"

But our main topic in this article shall be the achievement of Mr. H. W. Scott, who has a remarkable career pointing in an unusual direction. At school as we recall, he was a lad that smiled easily, polite, raising his hat to the lady teachers even at recess when they would speak to him. Courtesy seemed part of his makeup. He was that would acknowledge by no doing avoided the trouble with his congenial smile. Our diary shows that his special forte was penmanship, tracing letter heads, written in spencerian characters, his desk filled with scraps of paper containing scraps that caused him to be sharply rebuked occasionally when another line of work was assigned. But what did all this mean? After awhile the directors of the state fair of Texas turned over to the writer $1,000 for prizes as premiums for various lines of work among the colored people, and among these, we offered premiums for the best writing, the best pen decorations, and it was Mr. Scott who carried away these prizes for several consecutive years, leading really all competitors and stood in a class by himself.

Mr. Scott wrote the names of the graduates in the diplomas of the higher school for a number of years as a specialist in German character, receiving high praises from the superintendent of the schools classing his artistic writing the best of the kind in connection with the schools of the city. This young man was his own teacher in this beautiful art of decorative writing that secured the position over white competitors in filling out diplomas for high school graduates. Is there any from roof above the head of any one who wishes to ascend above the ladder of success that one is pleased to call obstacles? Who shall set limits to the aspiring and ambitious youth? If any, let his hand be withered with the blast that issues forth from the fiery tongue of progress and determination.

But Mr. Scott has not been content to stop with that beautiful art of decorative penmanship, however, much it may be desired. His aspirations have reached out in other directions. He has mastered the short-hand, and even established an institute that he might teach the rapid art of writing, and is still teaching this art that is so essential for which there is such a great demand in every department of life, and of business. Short-hand type-writing has been given those who attend this institute, and a list of some distinguished persons have completed his course, among them may be mentioned, Mrs. W. B. West, Miss Lillie A. Shaw, Mrs. Annie Mae-Cates Turner, Mrs. Georgia White-Bush, Mrs. Mary Crain Waller, and Miss Edna E. Zell and others, among whom are Prof. T. D. Marshall and L. H. Lightner, Supreme Scribe of American Woodmen.

Short-hand should have a place in our curriculum for Negro children in our high school and which could be secured for the asking and then why not ask. Some years ago a committee waited on Gov. Campbell, and he told them the reason why the colored people did receive more was because they ask for less, what a statement for us who need more and seem to be afraid to ask for it. We have found in our observation that the white man stands ready to grant our requests, if we demand the courage to ask. The Negro needs all he can get, he needs every facility known in order that he may rise by stepping upon his dead self to grasp the hand of the living energy and vital manhood that awaits him. We wish to mention other short-hand writers of our city in the person of Mrs. Island, Prof. V. T. Tubbs, Miss L. A. Shaw, and especially the accomplished Miss Avis Caldwell, stenographer to Hon. M. M. Rodgers, Grand Secretary of the Knight of her two, he was furnished by Fredrick Douglas High School Band which positions in the government. Why not prepare, young men and young women? The game lies open? You are next.

COLORED CITIZENS ASSOCIATION STAGES A BIG RALLY TUESDAY NIGHT. MEETING STRONGLY ATTENDED. CANDIDATES SPEAK TO NEGRO CITIZENS.

About two or three hundred persons, both men and women representing every walk of life greeted the Colored Citizens Association rally with their presence last Tuesday night at U. B. of F. and S. M. T. Hall. Geo. L. Boswell presided and music was furnished by Fredrick Douglas High School Band which positions in the government. Why not prepare, young men and young women? The game lies open? You are next.

John H. Dickson, chairman of the Association, said: "gentlemen and fellow citizens, I am glad to be here representing the class of men comprising the Citizens ticket, who present, it is elected to give my people a square deal. 'I love my people he said. Some years ago I went through England and Germany to Gold Coast Africa in interest of my people and when I returned to this country and back to Dallas I made up my mind to live and die here. 'I am interested in you and I believe our candidates are equally interested, and in event of their election feel that they will give us a square deal as is promised."

"J. C. Jordan was introduced as the 'stump buster and a log roller.' When he ascended for the rostrum a cry of laughter went up. Jordan responded: "While you laugh I am really to shed tears: 'Dallas has slipped from under control of the people to the public utilities, the white folks have gotten uneasy and it is time for the Negro to wake up.' Jordan says, never in his life has he seen the white man seeking the Negro vote as he has in this campaign."

At this juncture he became more enthusiastic as he proceeded to deliver the argument, 'gentlemen this isn't a time to hunt for the fifty here, but it is a time to ask for something for the race. Dallas is farther behind than any city in Texas in representation in its municipal affairs. The white man is not responsible either he related; its because its leaders get every thing at the pie counter and was afraid to show up and ask for anything for the race as they carried their allotments away in their pockets. "What we want from these gentlemen who will ride into affairs April 1st is the same treatment that is accorded the Mexican, the Chinaman and the Japanese, that's all we ask and nothing more. In the event you gentlemen fail, look for us the next two years with 5000 strong and we'll put you out."

Hon. Fred Appel, candidate for water commissioner was introduced and said: "Fellow citizens I am surely glad I came up here, you know what I want. (laughter) I want to be water commissioner; I am well qualified for the position."

"We stand for justice regardless of creed or color." I am not going to make a speech because I can't. Thank you." (laughter) and applause.

Capt. H. L. McGee, candidate for Police and Fire Commissioner was next introduced: "Well said he is getting to be a regular thing of speaking up here (laughter), he recited a joke and ended by saying we must have a platform system in the department, a 12 hour shift for firemen, speaking of the abolishment of slavery, men it is being carried on here in your fire department."

"In the police department I am going to have first-class men as police officers that will arrest the thief and catch the murderer and get the evidence and do away with officers who goes out and while citizens across their heads with their 'billus' just for an exercise."

Hon. Geo. F. Rockhold also spoke in favor of the candidacy of Capt. Hal. W. Mosely, who is yet with the National Army in France, and is on the way home.

Hon. Dwight L. Lewellyn was introduced and made a splendid address. The meeting was enthusiastically received and well worth the time spent in hearing the issues. Every one was urged to vote the Citizens ticket straight.

Carr delivered the annual sermon and made a deep and lasting impression. Mme. M. H. Leach delivered an instructive lecture on the Woman's division of the order.

Finally, Rev. W. L. Dickson and a number of his charges were introduced and a splendid donation was given for the work.
